

Fall Watering

All plants, especially broadleaf evergreens such as rhododendrons and hollies, require stored moisture to prevent winter burn and die-back. Fall watering also aids in spring flower development.

With this summer being so dry we recommend that you give all your plantings extra water until the ground freezes to prevent these issues from arising.

In addition to watering, we at Ahronian Landscaping offer an anti-desiccant application which helps shield vulnerable leaves from winter burn.

Fall Care Program

Summer vacation is over, the kids are in school and the temperatures are cooling down. It's time to take action on those landscaping projects that you've been putting off. We're putting together our fall care program again and we want to give you the opportunity to be on the list early.

Caring for your landscape properly in the fall will minimize the amount of damage caused during the winter months.

Planting:

Trees and shrubs appreciate a fall planting to establish themselves in your landscape. Many trees and shrubs are at their best in the fall for providing color. Planting spring bulbs in the fall will give you an early burst of color right when you need it most.

Planting evergreen trees on the north side of your home can help protect from cold winds and reduce energy costs.

Mulching:

A light layer of mulch can protect plants from poorly drained soil as a result of continuous freezing and thawing of the ground in the winter. Mulch also provides some immediate color and texture for your fall landscape.

Fertilizing:

Fertilizing in the fall improves winter stress tolerance and encourages a stronger, deeper root structure. Nutritionally balanced plants have a better chance of withstanding and recovering from harsh winter conditions.

Drainage:

Proper drainage can eliminate costly winter damage to your house and landscape. Re-grading and proper planting of trees and shrubs can help to control erosion.

Ornamental Plant Protection:

"A Frame" structures keep snow off vulnerable ornamentals such as weeping Japanese Maples.
